MARKET COMMENTARY

The Aussie market had a positive start to the week with catch-up after the long weekend. Few commodities that were flying had a slight pullback and few were panicking. Number of commodities are running on perceived supply worries, but demand could fall apart too. You want to be in commodities where demand is growing and supply risks are free boosters. Gold keeps rising on currency devaluation and debt worries while central banks are buying more than ever. Oil is starting to move after thermal coal, uranium and gas prices are moving higher. Food prices are running with supply shocks with weather. US domestic policy failures has forced White House to ramp up tariffs on South Korea while Iranian attack is looking more likely. There is pressure building on the White House with domestic terrorist tagging the last two killing has made it impossible for Democrats to keep funding the government. Government shutdown is coming on the weekend and it will be blamed on the Republicans. It may be different this time!

CNBC – EU and India > India and the European Union on Monday closed a ‘landmark’ free trade agreement, touted as the ‘mother of all deals,’ Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi said during a speech at the India Energy Week on Tuesday. The FTA signed with the EU, which represent about 25% of global GDP and about a third of global trade, will also complement India’s deals with Britain and the European Free trade Association, Modi said. The agreement will forge a market of 2 billion people at a time when trade ties are being tested amid rising geopolitical tensions. “I congratulate our colleagues associated with every sector, such as textiles, gems and Jewelry, leather and shoes. This deal will prove to be very supportive to these sectors,” Modi said. Modi and EU President Ursula von der Leyen are expected to make a joint statement at the India–EU summit in New Delhi, later in the day, revealing the details of the deal that had been in the making for nearly two decades.

CNBC – US and South Korea > South Korea’s ruling Democratic Party said it would pass a special act on the U.S. trade deal by end- February, according to Yonhap, after U.S. President Donald Trump threatened higher tariffs on South Korean exports. Earlier on Tuesday, Trump said he was raising tariffs on South Korean exports to 25% from the current 15%, citing a delay in the country’s parliament approving the Washington-Seoul trade deal agreed in July last year. Spokesperson of the ruling Democratic Party Kim Hyun-jung said Trump was likely referring to the Special Act on Strategic Investment Management between Korea and the United States, according to a Google translation of the statement in Korean, submitted to the country’s parliament last November. The bill aims to establish a state-run investment corporation to manage Seoul’s planned $350 billion investment pledge to Washington. The ruling DP currently holds 162 seats in the 300 seat National Assembly with four vacant seats, while the PPP holds 107.

Mexico's unemployment rate stood at 2.4% in December 2025, unchanged from the same period a year earlier and below market expectations of 2.6%. The number of unemployed people totaled 1.5 million. Unemployment among women was higher at 2.6%, compared with 2.2% for men. Individuals without completed lower-secondary education accounted for 11.0% of the unemployed, while those with higher educational attainment represented 88.8%. By age group, unemployment was concentrated among those aged 25–44 years (46.1%), followed by young people aged 15–24 years (33.5%). In terms of duration, 42.9% were unemployed for one month or less, while 32.6% were without work for more than one month and up to three months. The underemployment rate stood at 6.2%.

New orders for US-manufactured durable goods jumped 5.3% month over month in November 2025, rebounding from a revised 2.1% decline in October and beating market expectations for a 3.7% increase. The gain was driven by a sharp rebound in transportation equipment orders, which surged 14.7% after a 6.3% fall in October, led by a 97.6% spike in civilian aircraft bookings. Elsewhere, orders also rose for electrical equipment, appliances and components (1.7% vs. -0.5%), fabricated metal products (1.0% vs. 0.8%), machinery (0.5% vs. 0.6%), and computers and electronic products (0.2%, unchanged). Excluding transportation, new orders increased 0.5% after a 0.1% gain in October, while orders excluding defense surged 6.6%, reversing a 1.3% decline in the previous month. Meanwhile, orders for non-defense capital goods excluding aircraft, a closely watched proxy for business spending plans, rose by 0.7%, after a 0.3% gain the previous month.

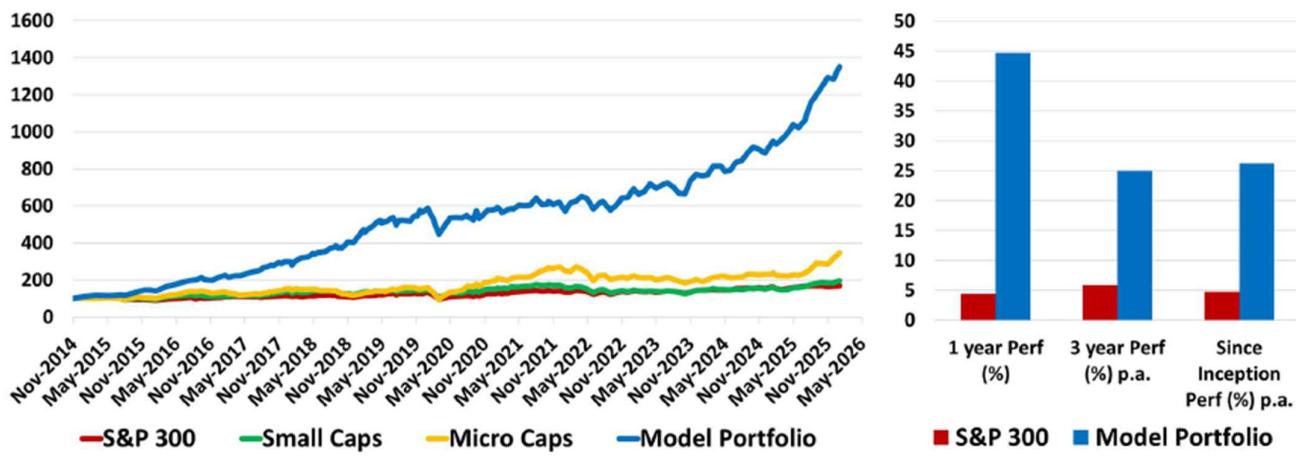

The Dallas Fed's general business activity index for Texas manufacturing increased 10 points to -1.2 in January 2026, reversing December's contraction, while the outlook index rebounded into positive territory at 2.9, indicating an improvement in perceptions of broader business conditions. Manufacturing activity strengthened across the board. The production index jumped to 11.2, signaling a solid expansion in output. New orders rose 18 points to 11.8, capacity utilization moved up 12 points to 7.1, and the shipments index increased to 12.0. Labor market indicators pointed to resumed hiring and steady workweeks. The employment index increased to 8.2, with firms reporting net hiring. The hours worked index moved up to 0.7, indicating no change in hours worked. Selling price pressures increased, input price pressures were little changed and wage growth slowed slightly.

Australia's NAB Business Confidence Index edged up to 3 in December 2025 from an upwardly revised 2 in the previous month. Meanwhile, business conditions strengthened (9 vs 7 November), driven by gains in both sales (16 vs 13) and profits (vs 4) while employment held steady (at 4). Price measures ticked higher in the three months to December, though capacity utilisation eased only slightly to a still elevated 83.2%. "The survey is consistent with the view that momentum improved in the Australian economy in the fourth quarter," said NAB Chief Economist Sally Auld, noting that elevated utilisation was broad-based. Tuesday's figure preceded December inflation data, after November eased to 3.4%, a three-month low but still above the central bank's 2–3% target. Meantime, the Reserve Bank is set to begin its first policy meeting of the year next week, having maintained the cash rate at 3.6% for the third month in a row in December.

Profits at China's industrial firms rose 0.6% yoy to CNY 7.40 billion in 2025, accelerating from a 0.1% gain in the first 11 months. The pick-up was driven by private firms, where profits steadied after a prior 0.1% drop, and by foreign-invested companies, particularly those from Hong Kong, Macao, and Taiwan, whose profits grew more quickly (4.2% vs 2.4%). Profits at state-owned firms remained under pressure (-3.9% vs -1.6%). By sector, earnings growth was strongest in ferrous metal smelting and rolling, which posted a three-fold increase, followed by non-ferrous smelting (22.6%), computers and communications (19.5%), electricity and heat (13.9%), special equipment (5.7%), electrical machinery (4.9%), general equipment (4.2%), and agriculture (3.2%). In contrast, profits fell in coal mining (-41.8%), oil and gas (-18.7%), textiles (-12.0%), and chemicals (-7.3%). In December alone, profits surged 5.3% yoy, reversing November's 13.0% plunge and signaling improving momentum into 2026.
