MARKET COMMENTARY

The Aussie market had a negative start to the new month and new week as commodity bashing continues. The media spin is that the Kevin Warsh (new Fed Chief from May) is going to be hawkish to reduce balance sheet to get rate cuts. This is different from his previous play at Fed chief by pushing lower interest rates. The problem with all this is the global market and in particular US market is built on asset bubbles. Any form of liquidity crush and asset bubbles get uncomfortable. When the wealth is based on paper asset prices and they rely on liquidity, it is easy to talk tough but harder to execute. It is even harder when the President is unstable at best. There isn't enough time to curb balance sheets to cut rates without fueling inflation. The market reacting to targeted bank hit on commodities with market worry. Central banks have gone out of their way to pump asset bubbles and will find it hard to unwind without pain. Japan has been at it for three decades and it's still a mess. RBA hike is expected tomorrow but they are likely to find some reason to do a hawkish hold. If precious metals are expensive, then equity markets are scary. It may be different this time!

CNBC – South Korea > South Korean benchmarks tumbled Monday, leading wider declines in the region. The Kospi index fell more than 4%, while the Kospi 200 futures dropped as much as 5%, prompting authorities to temporarily halt trading, according to an official note. Index heavyweights SK Hynix and Samsung Electronics were down 6.66% and 5.55%, respectively. The small-cap Kosdaq lost 4.45%. Asia-Pacific markets fell Monday as investors assessed private data for China's factory activity in January, while gold extended losses from Friday. China's factory activity gathered speed in January, according to a private survey released Monday, as manufacturers accelerated production and loaded cargoes ahead of the extended Lunar New Year holiday.

CNBC – US and Iran > Oil prices slid Monday as investors dialed back fears of a supply shock after U.S. President Donald Trump's statements on Iran signaled a possible easing in tensions between Tehran and Washington. Trump has repeatedly warned Iran of a possible intervention if it failed to reach a nuclear deal or continued cracking down on domestic protests, which Tehran claims are fueled by the West. On Saturday, he told reporters that Iran was "seriously talking" with the U.S. His comments came after Iran's top security official Ali Larijani said on X that preparations for negotiations were under way. Oil prices rose to a six-month high recently amid fears the United States could carry out a military strike against Iran. Washington last week deployed a "massive Armada" toward Iran, a move that raised fears of a confrontation with the Middle Eastern country. Andy Lipow, president of Lipow Oil Associates, said the renewed slide in prices follows reports that Washington and Tehran have been communicating through intermediaries, raising hopes that tensions could ease rather than spiral.

Historically, 75% of retail investors have experienced losses during positive market periods. Investors are now facing market cycles that are unprecedented in their lifetime, making risk management a crucial aspect of investing. Going forward, the trend towards active investing is reemerging as investors seek quality, relative value, profitability, and dividends. To navigate this new paradigm, it's important to have an active investment strategy that is flexible and adaptable to changing market conditions!

Heavy selling hit the mining sector, with gold producers leading the declines. Newmont slid 10.1 per cent to $155.96, Northern Star dropped 8.1 per cent to $26.60 and Emerald Resources fell 9.3 per cent to $6.76. Silver-linked stocks also came under pressure, with South32 down 4.3 per cent to $4.42 and Sun Silver plunging 12.2 per cent to $1.98.

Energy stocks weakened as oil prices retreated. Woodside lost 1.8 per cent to $24.91 after Brent crude dropped 4.9 per cent to $US65.93 a barrel, following comments from Donald Trump that he hoped to reach an agreement with Iran, easing fears of conflict in the Gulf.

Commonwealth Bank rose 1.4 per cent to $151.48 ahead of an expected RBA rate hike on Tuesday, reclaiming its position as the largest stock on the index after BHP slid 2.3 per cent to $49.42. The other major banks were mixed, with ANZ edging up 0.1 per cent to $36.75 and Westpac adding 0.2 per cent to $38.92, while National Australia Bank fell 1 per cent to $42.96.

In corporate news, GrainCorp tumbled 14 per cent to $6.19 after cutting its full-year EBITDA guidance to between $200 million and $240 million, well below market expectations of $306 million.

BlueScope slipped 1.5 per cent to $29.79 after announcing a $150 million cost-reduction program, extending its existing $200 million productivity drive for FY26. Analysts said the measures could add about $3 per share, or roughly 10 per cent, to the stock price if fully delivered.

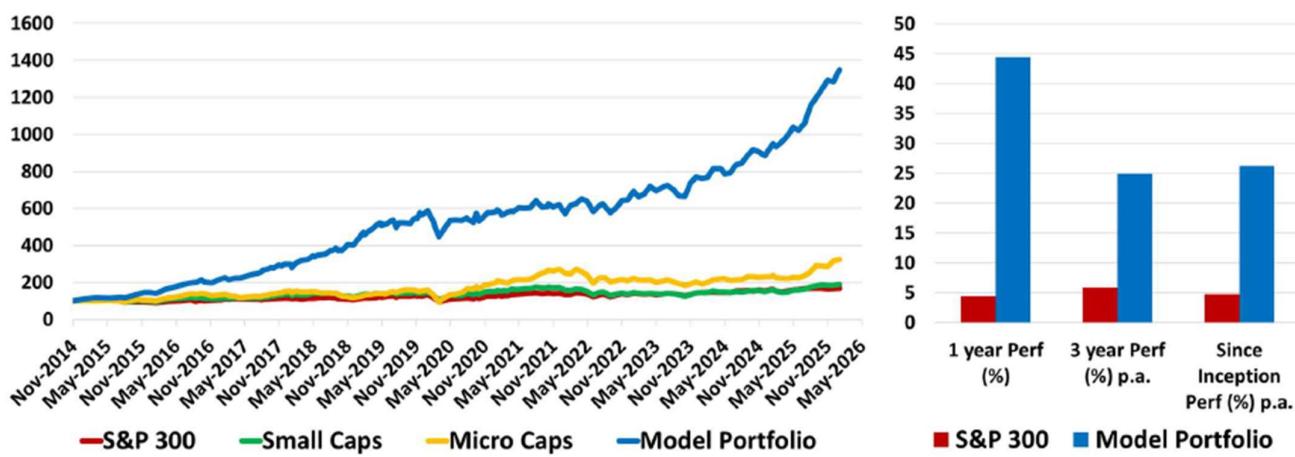

KMD Brands dropped 5.4 per cent to 22.7 cents after analysts cautioned that despite stronger-than-expected sales growth, downside risk to earnings remained, with company guidance sitting below consensus forecasts.

Recce Pharmaceuticals climbed 9.8 per cent to 61.5 cents after signing a co-operative research and development agreement with the US Army Institute of Surgical Research to assess its RECCE 327 Gel for burn wound infections.

Catalyst Metals fell 8 per cent amid the broader gold sell-off, closing at $7.93. The company also announced the appointment of Mark Connelly as independent non-executive director and chairman, replacing David Jones from March 2.
