MARKET COMMENTARY

The Aussie market was bashed as tech worries and reporting season worries took over. The US market continues to wobble with policy failures and tech bubble worries. AI is hitting different sectors on a daily basis. Local market reporting season was not taking prisoners with disappointed stocks getting hammered by 20%. Growth stocks are getting smashed and tech/AI growth stocks are getting special punishment after running hot for a few years. US employment data was weak but was dressed up to look good. Now it's inflation's turn to get dressed up and likely to come up weaker than expected despite the reality being different. Goldman Sachs lawyer is resigning after being linked to Epstein while most of the main White House team has seen no reaction despite the recent file releases pointing to numerous issues. It looks inevitable that Trump does TACO (Trump Always Chickens Out) on a few tariffs to boost sentiment after hitching his wagon to the market. The economy is real while markets can be manipulated short term. It may be different this time!

CNBC – Panama > Hong Kong's CK Hutchison Holdings has threatened legal action against Danish shipping giant A.P. Moller-Maersk after Panamanian authorities tapped the group to temporarily take over operations of two strategic ports at either end of the Panama Canal. In a statement on Thursday, CK Hutchison warned A.P. Moller-Maersk that "any steps" the Danish group or its subsidiary takes to operate the ports without its agreement will likely "result in legal recourse." That's according to CNBC's translation of the Chinese statement. The simmering dispute has become a geopolitical flashpoint between Washington and Beijing, with Panama caught in the crossfires. Tensions intensified last month when Panama's Supreme Court ruled that the concession held by a CK Hutchison subsidiary to operate the two ports was "unconstitutional." The company pushed back, saying it "strongly disagreed" with the ruling and launched arbitration proceedings against Panama.

CNBC – Epstein and Goldman Sachs > Top Goldman Sachs lawyer Kathryn Ruemmler said Thursday night that she will leave the investment bank at the end of June, a decision that came after a flurry of news articles highlighting documents detailing the former White House counsel's often chummy email conversations with the notorious sex predator Jeffrey Epstein. Goldman, for months, has defended Ruemmler after Congress and then the Department of Justice released emails between her and Epstein, as well as other documents related to investigations of him. Ruemmler, who has been a key advisor to Goldman CEO David Solomon since joining the bank in 2020, told The Financial Times on Thursday, "I made the determination that the media attention on me, relating to my prior work as a defence attorney, was becoming a distraction." The FT first reported the 54-year-old's decision to leave Goldman.

Historically, 75% of retail investors have experienced losses during positive market periods. Investors are now facing market cycles that are unprecedented in their lifetime, making risk management a crucial aspect of investing. Going forward, the trend towards active investing is reemerging as investors seek quality, relative value, profitability, and dividends. To navigate this new paradigm, it's important to have an active investment strategy that is flexible and adaptable to changing market conditions!

Australian equities retreated on Friday as renewed concerns over AI-driven overinvestment and structural disruption to software earnings models triggered broad-based selling, led by technology stocks.

The S&P/ASX 200 declined 125.9 points, or 1.4%, to close at 8,917.6, with nine of the 11 sectors in negative territory. Despite the sharp daily pullback, the benchmark finished the week up 2.4%.

Technology stocks remained under sustained pressure, with the sector now down around 23% over the past month amid fears that generative AI will compress margins and undermine SaaS pricing power.

WiseTech Global fell 10.4% to $42.62, Xero declined 4.5% to $73.49 and TechnologyOne dropped 7.1% to $20.17.

Tech/AI bubble had been building for months, with AI threatening every core variable of the SaaS model — seats, modules and pricing. He warned that vendors offering commoditised tools with shallow integrations face genuine existential risk, as productivity gains reduce seat counts and the implied value of software outputs.

Gold stabilised just below US$5,000/oz following the prior session's sharp sell-off, as dip-buyers emerged ahead of key US inflation data. However, local gold equities lagged: Northern Star fell 3.5% to $28.37, Newmont eased 1.9% to $169.12 and Genesis Minerals lost 4.6% to $6.87.

Financials saw profit-taking after recent strength. Commonwealth Bank slipped 1.4% to $176.20, National Australia Bank fell 1.1% to $46.01 and Westpac declined 1.2% to $40.52 after reporting margin compression despite a better-than-expected $1.9bn profit.

ANZ outperformed, rising 1.3% to $40.89 following an upgrade from Morgan Stanley**, while AMP surged 9.0% to $1.39 in its strongest session in more than two decades.

Stock-specific volatility remained elevated. Austal plunged 22.8% to $4.87 after cutting FY26 earnings guidance by 18% to $110m due to a financial reporting error.

Cochlear dropped 18.9% to $199.22 after reporting a 21% fall in net profit to $162m and guiding to the lower end of its $435m–$460m full-year range.

Travel and consumer stocks were also weak. Webjet tumbled 25.2% to 58¢ after terminating takeover talks with Helloworld and BGH Capital, and trimming FY26 underlying EBITDA guidance to $28–29m (ex-Webjet Business Travel).

Nick Scali fell 22.3% to $18.48 after weaker-than-expected Australasian sales offset strong UK performance.

In contrast, asset managers outperformed. GQG Partners rose 7.8% to $1.73 after a modest beat on second-half distributable earnings and reporting a 10.8% lift in funds under management to US$164.3bn for 2025.

Overall, the session reflected growing investor caution around earnings sustainability in technology and high-multiple growth stocks, with market leadership rotating back toward defensives and balance-sheet quality ahead of key global inflation data.
