MARKET COMMENTARY

The Aussie market held the positive sentiment while macro worries continue to rise. Israel/US attack on Iran looks imminent. US has built up a substantial force in the Middle East while negotiating with Iran. The negotiations are irrelevant. After the previous cosplay attack on an empty nuclear testing site, it is clear that US does not want to put troops on the ground while Israel wants to initiate the war. US has pulled their forces from Syria while White House is run by front running vested interest group. It looks like we are going to set up shorts in the market on Friday and there may be substantial air attack after US market. Oil has lead all segments of energy to react while gold has bounced back over $5k. The Epstein files are throwing up some serious allegations and that may tip the White House to go to war as distraction. Locally the wages growth was solid but inflation is too hot. Employment market is red hot and that means RBA needs to hike to curb inflation. And that means we have to hurt the property bubble and we struggle with that. Reporting season is throwing up some serious volatility. Nothing shows US consumer weakness like Buy Now Pain Later stock getting ZIPped 30%+ after result. Bond market is not playing nice. We can do it the easy way or the hard way. Given where we are, we are going to have to do it the hard way. It may be different this time!

CNBC – US Fed > Divided Federal Reserve officials at their January meeting indicated that further interest rate cuts should be paused for now and could resume later in the year only if inflation cooperates. While the decision to hold the central bank's benchmark rate steady mostly was met with approval, the path ahead appeared less certain, with members conflicted between fighting inflation and supporting the labor market, according to minutes released Wednesday from the Jan. 27-28 Federal Open Market Committee meeting. "In considering the outlook for monetary policy, several participants commented that further downward adjustments to the target range for the federal funds rate would likely be appropriate if inflation were to decline in line with their expectations," the meeting summary said. However, meeting participants disagreed on where policy should head, with officials debating over whether the focus should be more on fighting inflation or supporting the labor market.

CNBC – US and Iran > Oil prices rose more than 4% on Wednesday, after Vice President JD Vance said Iran did not address U.S. red lines in nuclear talks this week and President Donald Trump reserves the right to use military force. U.S. envoys Steve Witkoff and Jared Kushner held nuclear talks with Iran in Geneva on Tuesday. Iran's foreign minister, Abbas Araghchi, described the discussions as "constructive," according to Iranian media. Araghchi said the talks yielded a general agreement on guiding principles. Oil prices closed lower Tuesday as traders interpreted the foreign minister's comments as a sign that the U.S. and Iran could still reach a settlement. But Vance said Tehran had failed to address core U.S. demands.

Historically, 75% of retail investors have experienced losses during positive market periods. Investors are now facing market cycles that are unprecedented in their lifetime, making risk management a crucial aspect of investing. Going forward, the trend towards active investing is reemerging as investors seek quality, relative value, profitability, and dividends. To navigate this new paradigm, it's important to have an active investment strategy that is flexible and adaptable to changing market conditions!

The Australian sharemarket extended its rally on Thursday, recording its longest winning streak in more than a month as investors navigated one of the busiest days of the reporting season. The S&P/ASX 200 rose 79.2 points, or 0.9%, to close at 9,086.2, finishing just short of its October record close after touching an intraday high of 9,118.3. Local labour market data showing the unemployment rate steady at 4.1% had limited impact on equities, despite leading bond markets to increase the probability of a June rate hike from the Reserve Bank of Australia. Price action was instead driven by higher oil prices and a heavy flow of earnings results.

Resilient macroeconomic conditions and solid historical earnings momentum underpinned risk appetite, with more than 70% of ASX-listed stocks closing higher. Rising interest rate expectations following the January employment data were seen as supportive for bank net interest margins. Reporting season volatility remains elevated, with more than half of ASX 200 constituents moving more than 5% on the day of their results.

Financial stocks led the advance, extending the sector's monthly gain to around 8%. Westpac gained 2.7% to $41.89, National Australia Bank rose 2.4% to $48.28, ANZ added 2.1% to $40.07 and Commonwealth Bank edged up 0.7% to $178.19. Energy was the strongest-performing sector as oil prices climbed above US$70 a barrel on heightened geopolitical risk, lifting Woodside Energy by 4.5% to $27.10, Santos by 5.6% to $7.00 and Beach Energy by 2.7% to $1.13.

Materials stocks rebounded from recent profit-taking, with BHP rising 1.8% to $53.23 and Rio Tinto gaining 2.0% to $168.55 ahead of its result, which reported a full-year net profit of US$10 billion. Healthcare and telecommunications also performed strongly, with Sonic Healthcare rallying 9.9% to $23.34 after reporting better-than-expected activity in Australia and Germany and reaffirming guidance, while Telstra advanced 3.6% to $5.14 after increasing its share buyback to $1.25 billion and delivering a 9.4% rise in interim net profit to $1.1 billion, alongside narrowed earnings guidance of $8.2 billion to $8.4 billion.

In financial services, Hub24 surged 14.2% to $98.45 after reporting a 70% jump in half-year profit to $62.2 million and lifting its interim dividend to 36 cents a share, while IPH climbed 12.7% to $3.81 after posting a 10.5% increase in net profit to $41.2 million, supported by growth in Canada and Asia. By contrast, Medibank Private fell 5.6% to $4.52 after underlying profit of $298 million missed expectations due to weaker health insurance performance and higher financing costs, while Zip Co plunged 34.4% to $1.85 after first-half cash EBITDA of $124 million undershot expectations and US activity slowed.

Consumer discretionary stocks were a drag on the market, with Wesfarmers sliding 5.6% to $84.24 on concerns over its second-half outlook and Lovisa tumbling 12.8% to $27.04 after statutory earnings missed market expectations despite underlying profit beating consensus. In property and industrials, Lifestyle Communities dropped 7.1% to $5.33 as profit fell to $15.8 million on weaker settlements and deferred management fee revenue, while NRW Holdings jumped 8.7% to $6.12 after upgrading full-year EBITDA guidance to a range of $275 million to $285 million.

Overall, market direction continues to be driven by earnings outcomes and oil price movements, with rising interest rate expectations providing near-term support for the banking sector and volatility expected to remain elevated for the remainder of the reporting season.
